Location and description of entrance At left side of front. Odd oversized door with sidelights and elliptical fanlight with rectangular muntins.

Miscellaneous descriptive information (plan, exterior and interior decoration, cornice/eave type, window type and trim, chimneys, additions, alterations)

This gray-stuccoed house appears to have grown in two or three segments; the one-story wing at the right is certainly an addition. An odd feature is the doorway with rectangular-muntined fanlight.

Historical information

According to Eugenia Bibb, this may have served as a fraternity house in the 1920s.

Miscellaneous descriptive information (plan, exterior and interior decoration, cornice/eave type, window type and trim, chimneys, additions, alterations)

This is a rather standard Georgian-style brick house of the period. Note the double-tier side porch. The house sits on a slope, creating a grade-level basement entry at the front.

Historical information

This house has been divided into apartments since before WWII, and possibly earlier.
