(Number all entries)

ໃນບໍ່ເງ

7. D. Doorways and doors: Doorways have architrave trim and six-paneled doors.

E. Trim: All the rooms have a molded chair-rail and baseboard. In the hall and the library the chair-rail and the baseboards employ simple greek moldings on the walls with the fireplaces. The other three walls use a Georgian molding. The cupboards in the west room have symmetrically molded trim with corner blocks. The east room has molded plaster trim around the perimeter of the ceiling and a rosette in the center.

F. Heating: Fireplaces are in every room. The mantel in the entrance hall has dentil work under the broad shelf, a plain frieze and plain pilasters. The other mantels have a plain frieze with a molding and plain pilasters. Each fireplace has an iron fireplace lining with reeded pilasters and a panelled lintel.

IV. , Site:

A. Setting: Oak Lawn is set on a hill and looks east over Charlottesville. The house is surrounded by trees thickly scattered over a large lawn, which help protect it from the encroachment of the busy city streets.

B. Outbuildings: A small American bond brick gable roofed building with an exterior end chimney was the original cook's house and is set west of the house.

Oak Lawn is a notable example of Jeffersonian Classicism with the Randolph-Semple House in Williamsburg being its design prototype. Built in 1822, the house is believed to have been constructed by workmen employed by Thomas Jefferson at the nearby University of Virginia. Many of these men, strongly influenced by Jefferson, went on to design and erect courthouses, churches, and houses throughout the state. Sequestered from Charlottesville by its large shady lawn, Oak Lawn is a skillfull interpretation of Jefferson's architectural ideas.

The Oak Lawn tract was part of a patent granted to Joel Terrell and David Lewis in the 1730's. Micajah Chiles came into the possession of the property in 1784 and it was inherited by his son, Henry West Alberty (alias Henry Chiles). Alberty sold the tract in 1815 to Jesse Winston Garth who sold 394 acres to Colonel Nimrod Bramham in 1818.

James Fife, business man, farmer, and Baptist Minister, bought the house and property in 1847 and changed the name from Oak Grove to Oak Lawn. Although lots were sold from the farmland in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, the Fife family retained the house and a core of land. Today only five acres remain with Oak Lawn after the City of Charlottesville condemned the remaining acreage for Buford Junior High School in the late 1960's.
